Dr. Judith Reisman is sought worldwide to speak, lecture, testify, and counsel individuals, organizations, professionals and governments regarding a) fraudulent sex science-education and b) pornography; the power and effect of images and the monopoly media to alter human brain, mind, memory and conduct. The special emphasis of her work has been and continues to be the negative influence of these change agents upon children and society.

"We should probably call her Detective Reisman for finding the hidden clue to Kinsey's crimes against children and families. She alone noticed that babies were molested in the name of Kinsey's macabre science and her book is the victims' grand jury indictment of perhaps the most destructive sexual revolutionary since Caligula. Kinsey, Crimes & Consequences is a blueprint for justice for victims of sexual exploitation and abuse. In the face of Kinsey's handbook for perpetrators, Dr. Reisman is the victims' amicus curiae." Bruce A. Taylor, Former resident & Chief Counsel, National Law Center for Children and Families:

"Dr. Reisman's study supports the conclusion that Alfred Kinsey's research was contrived, ideologically driven and misleading. Any judge, legislator or other public official who gives credence to that research is guilty of malpractice and dereliction of duty."

Charles E. Rice, Notre Dame Law School

Dr. Reisman is president of The Institute for Media Education, author of the U.S. Department of Justice, Juvenile Justice study, Images of Children, Crime and Violence in Playboy, Penthouse and Hustler (1989), Kinsey, Sex and Fraud (Reisman, et al., 1990) and Soft Porn Plays Hardball (1991), Partner Solicitation Language as a Reflection of Male Sexual Orientation (w/Johnson, 1995), and Kinsey, Crimes & Consequences (1998, 2000) and is a news commentator for WorldNetDaily.com. She has been a consultant to four U.S. Department of Justice administrations, The U.S. Department of Education, as well as the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Dr. Reisman is listed in numerous Who's Who biographies such as: Who's Who in Science & Engineering, International Who's Who in Sexology, International Who's Who in Education, Who's Who of American Women and The World's Who's Who of Women. Her scholarly findings have had international legislative and scientific import in the United States, Israel, South Africa, Canada and Australia, while The German Medical Tribune and the British medical journal, The Lancet demanded that the Kinsey Institute be investigated, saying:

The Kinsey reports (one in 1948 on males and the companion five years later) claimed that sexual activity began much earlier in life.... and displayed less horror of age differences and same-sex relationships than anyone at the time imagined. It was as if, to follow Mr. Porter again, "Anything goes". In Kinsey, Sex and Fraud, Dr. Judith A. Reisman and her colleagues demolish the foundations of the two reports ... Kinsey et al ... questioned an unrepresentative proportion of prison inmates and sex offenders in a survey of "normal" sexual behavior. Presumably some at least of those offenders were also the sources of information on stimulation to orgasm in young children that can only have come from pedophiles--or so it must be hoped. Kinsey.... has left his former co-workers some explaining to do. The Lancet, (Vol. 337: March 2, 1991, p. 547).

Tim Tate, UNESCO and Amnesty International Award-winning Producer-Director of "Kinsey's Paedophiles," Yorkshire Television, Great Britain, 1998: "In the course of producing my documentary-Kinsey's Paedophiles—it became clear that every substantive allegation Reisman made was not only true but thoroughly sourced with documentary evidence—despite the Kinsey Institute's reluctance to open its files."

Washington, DC: November 18, 2004. Expert witness, Testimony before the Subcommittee on Science Technology, and Space of the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation on “The Brain Science Behind Pornography Addiction and the Effects of Addiction on Families and Communities.”

April 2004: Science Advisor: Subcommittee on Junk Science, The American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC), 2,400 State Legislators (1999-2004), for ALEC “State Factor,” a research report entitled: “Restoring Legal Protections for Women And Children: A Historical Analysis of The States’ Criminal Codes,” exposing the Kinsey cabal’s sabotage of US State and Federal laws.

INTERNATIONALLY

SOUTH AFRICA, 1995: The Office of the Attorney General thanks Dr. Reisman for “your knowledge and your expertise.... your assistance in saving this nation from a potential disaster.... we have achieved a major victory on the pornography front.... which would not have been possible without the aid of your expert knowledge, books, videos and articles.” Dr. Reisman’s testimony on the ways graphic, antisocial imagery reconfigures brain, mind and memory helped pass The Film and Publications Bill of 1995, by an overwhelming majority of 300 votes, prohibiting child pornography in any form (written, visual, cartoon, “artistic” or pseudo), and prohibiting current types of “adult” pornography.

AUSTRALIA, Parliament 1994 and 1992: Following her April 6, 1992 invited testimony and report on pornography and the harm factor to the Senate Select Committee on Community Standards, Parliament banned "X" Rated materials from pay cable TV, while her March 1994 research paper aided Parliament’s decision, based on harm, to similarly ban "R" Rated materials from pay cable TV.

CANADA, Supreme Court 1992: Dr. Reisman provided briefing materials on pornography and harm, aiding the Canadian Supreme Court's unanimous decision February 27, 1992 to ban all pornography as "obscene" as it undermines equality by degrading, subjugating and dehumanizing women. Subsequently, in 1993, Dr. Reisman was tasked by the Ontario Human Rights Commission to produce a research paper, "Pornography in Neighborhood Convenience Stores: Neurochemical Effects on Women," for a pornography case challenging the new law--results pending.

NEW ZEALAND, Tribunal 1991 and 1989: Dr. Reisman's research was delivered by-proxy via Dr. John Court to the New Zealand Pornography Commission investigations in 1989. She was again asked for, and delivered, written testimony to the New Zealand Indecency Tribunal in 1991.

ISRAEL, Knesset 1982: Dr. Reisman founded a media monitoring, non-profit foundation in Israel, funded by private and public sources that have presented findings on Israeli media to the Knesset and throughout Israel. At minimum, major corrections and improvements were made in controlling advertisements, largely due to Dr. Reisman's data collection, cadre training, and public dissemination of information.

THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT

MASSACHUSETTS, 1989: Oakes v. Massachusetts. Massachusetts Attorney General, James Shannon cited Dr. Reisman's DoJ, Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention study in this successful brief and in oral appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. Shannon wrote (1/8/90):

I contacted Dr. Reisman in connection with an important child pornography case, Massachusetts v. Oakes...that I argued in the United States Supreme Court in January 1989...I had to convince the court that both nude and sexually explicit photographs of children were exploitive and harmful. To make the point, I quoted Dr. Reisman’s study, “Images of Children, Crime and Violence in Playboy, Penthouse, and Hustler Magazines,” in which she showed that sexually exploitive photographs of children condone and promote a distorted view of sexuality, often by pairing...sexuality and violence, or depicting children as desiring sexual activity with adults.

OHIO, 1989: Osborne v. Ohio. Amici cited "Neurochemical Evidence Shows That People React Differently To Pictures Than They Do To Words Raising New First Amendment Considerations" and thanks "Dr. Judith Reisman for her valuable development of this concept" (:23) and, "J. Reisman's New York Review of Law and Social Change," (1979) where she addressed media, science and civil rights.

On behalf of the Amici in Osborne v. Ohio.... thanks for your invaluable assistance rendered to us in researching and writing this brief. Your ideas on how the visual images effect people substantially more than the written word is indeed a new concept and could have many significant ramifications in the area of the First Amendment. If in fact the court and legislatures do believe that visual images, specifically of sexual, sexually violent and violent material, will have a greater impact on people in general and children in particular, there may be justification for more strict legislation in these areas than would apply to the written material. Moreover, under a First Amendment analysis, since the harm is greater, there would be more of a compelling state interest to have stricter laws. (H. Robert Showers, 10/12/89).

USA LOWER COURTS

Crawford v. Lungren, 1996: The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit upheld the right of California’s news rack laws to protect minors in support of Amici arguments by the National Law Center for Children and Families. Amici cited to Reisman’s Canadian paper, “Pornography in Neighborhood Convenience Stores: Neurochemical Effects on Women,” that “Images reach the brain more quickly than print” (:15).

Steffan v. Perry, 1994 and 1991: The U.S. States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. The lower court in 1991, under Judge Oliver Gash, cited Reisman’s book in rejecting Steffan’s appeal. Upon challenge in 1994, Colonel Ronald Ray Esq., Ret., and Reisman filed an Amicus brief on behalf of the Naval Aviation Foundation in support of the Department of Defense ruling, that homosexuality and sexual conduct cannot be separated. General P.X. Kelley, former member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Commandant of The Marine Corps, wrote of Reisman’s “groundbreaking work in Kinsey, Sex & Fraud,” (October 5, 1994) in recommending she and Colonel Ray enter the Steffan case.

United States v. Knox, 1994: The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third District, ruled in support of arguments presented in the Institute for Media Education Amicus and Arnold & Porter written with Colonel Ron Ray and Randall Shaheen, citing Reisman’s research on images and for OJJDP, to protect children from use in child pornography. At “Moot Court” the Congressional court appointed lawyer credited Reisman's argument as "the finest Brandies Brief" I've seen on this issue. "The leading precedent on child pornography involving clothed minors is a federal case known as United States v. Knox, which involved a pedophile who obtained erotic videos of girls. In that 1994 case, the Federal Court of Appeals upheld the conviction of the pedophile, Stephen Knox, saying explicitly that clothing alone did not automatically mean that images of children were legal." The New York Times, August 20, 2006.

TEXAS, 1993: Despite obstructions, the Court's successful use of Dr. Reisman's findings continues. A Texas prosecutor wrote the following: As a prosecuting attorney, I have tried approximately 35 obscenity jury trials in which the defense has called a sociologist as an expert witness on community standards. Your book, Kinsey, Sex and Fraud, has proven invaluable on cross-examination. This sociologist studied at the Kinsey Institute and bases a lot of expert opinions on his studies at that institute. To be able to point out to the jury the fraud that Alfred Kinsey and his institute have perpetrated is a very effective tool...I encourage you to continue your work in this area to point out to the public the frauds sociology and psychology have given us (March 8, 1993).

OHIO, 1991: State of Ohio v. Contemporary Arts Center, (Mapplethorpe trial): The presiding judge rules in agreement with Dr. Reisman's expert testimony re: what was Mapplethorpe's artistic "whole" to be viewed by the jury. Frank Prouty, the State prosecutor writes: As you know, the State filed a Motion in Limine regarding what constituted the "whole" as that issue related to the Mapplethorpe exhibit. Your testimony was critical to the Motion, and your testimony ensured a favorable ruling for the State...The issues and interpretation you presented concerning the child photographs and the remaining photographs substantiated the prosecution's view...The perspective you established was both concise and persuasive, and should be considered in any interpretation of pornography and its affect in both children and adults (March 4, 1991).

CALIFORNIA, 1989: Ventura County Superior Court cites Reisman's research to convict child pornography Hustler cartoonist, Dwaine Tinsley. Mr. Hardy indicated that your report [Dr. Reisman's "Images of Children, Crime and Violence"] was extremely helpful throughout the prosecution of the Tinsley case. Mr. Hardy used the report as a reference source for putting together his closing arguments, and for his cross examination...Mr. Hardy considers your report to be a great piece of work, and has recommended the report...to the National Association of District Attorneys...your report...was a great help in the prosecution of this case (March 28, 1989).

Dr. Reisman has been successfully consulted on sexual harassment in the Minnesota workplace; on a mother's rights to child custody from an AIDS father in Kentucky; in testimony before the Attorney General's Commission on pornography; on homosexual versus parents rights in a Connecticut classroom on fraudulent sex education in Falmouth schools. She is currently consultant for a first amendment versus parental rights case involving one government school, in a second school versus parents' case involving subversion of parents to provide contraception to minors and a third case involving sexual harassment in the workplace.

LEGISLATION:

WASHINGTON, D.C., December 1995: HR 2749, The Child Protection and Ethics in Education Act, is introduced. A Bill to determine if Alfred Kinsey's Sexual Behavior in the Human Male and/or Sexual Behavior in the Human Female are the result of any fraud or criminal wrongdoing: 41 co-sponsors; carried over to 1997-1998 legislature to investigate the Kinsey data. This Bill is the culmination of Dr. Reisman's 20-years of research and advocacy for children. A Senate hearing waits in the wings.

MINNESOTA, 1993: After a last-minute briefing and presentation of pedophile exhibits by Dr. Reisman to Minnesota legislators, "affectional orientation" language, which allows children to be in legal sexual relationships with adults, is removed from two pending Minnesota laws.

GEORGIA, 1992: Heeding Dr. Reisman's exhibits and expert testimony on February 13, 1992, the State of Georgia House Education Subcommittee terminates Georgia's then mandated sex education curriculum due to its false, Kinseyan database. The educator who organized the legislative event credits Reisman's data, additionally, with the overwhelming legislative defeat of the homosexual/sex education lobby, by a house vote of 150-1 and a Senate vote of 48-6. The legislature prohibits teaching youths illegal behavior such as sodomy, adultery, and fornication. (C. Weatherly, Education Analysis & Research Systems, June 11, 1992).

WASHINGTON, D.C., 1991: Congressman William E. Danneymeyer cites Dr. Reisman's Kinsey fraud findings in a floor debate, which helped sway cancellation of a proposed $18 million dollar teen-sex survey (TIME, August 5, 1991: 27), viewed by the national sex-education monopoly as a major defeat in their efforts to modify American youth.

VIRGINIA, 1986: Dr. Peter Anderson wrote: "The City Council voted 7-0 in favor of banning topless dancing ... due to Dr. Reisman's knowledge of the material and her ability to present it in such a clear and concise manner. I encourage anyone to have Dr. Reisman address either their citizens or community leaders if they need help in fighting pornography in the local community". (June 1986).

MICHIGAN, circa 1980: Testimony to the Michigan State Senate Juvenile Justice Corrections, to aid decision-making on pornography harms.

MISCELLANEOUS USA

ILLINOIS, 1994: As an expert on "Cultural Diversity," Dr. Reisman's presentation of evidence, citing to the use of Kinsey[s findings in the planned curriculum, successfully aided parents in eliminating a $600,000 mandated Diversity program in Springfield, Illinois schools.

MISCELLANEOUS

MISSOURI, 1988: Missouri Department of Corrections. A Corrections psychologist writes that a group formed to study eliminating Playboy, Penthouse, and Hustler, and all other pornography from the prison system. A call to Missouri corrections finds all pornography but Playboy banned. "Two males within the administrative structure, who reportedly saw no problem with pornography within our system, were greatly swayed in favor of its removal once they read your report...[One] often attempted to sway policy toward allowing pornography to pacify inmates. He now is a member of our committee to halt and ban incoming pornography. Yours was the only report he read." (10/26/88)

COVER STORY IN The National Review, MAY 19, 1997 "Mortal Sins": "The sexual revolution was based on a lie. Judith Reisman has spent thirty years uncovering the truth," by Tom Bethell [and] featured in the Reader's Digest, (4/97), "Sex, Lies and the Kinsey Report."

Comments on Dr. Reisman and her Work

Tim Tate, Producer-Director, "Kinsey's Paedophiles," Yorkshire TV, Great Britain: "When I first came across Judith Reisman's work my view of Alfred Kinsey was unquestioningly benign... In the course of producing my documentary - 'Kinsey's Paedophiles' - it became clear that every substantive allegation Reisman made was not only true but thoroughly sourced with documentary evidence - despite the Kinsey Institute's reluctance to open its files. My film built on the foundations laid by Dr. Reisman. Those foundations - and the additional evidence we uncovered about Kinsey's involvement with paedophiles who were actively abusing children - make it imperative that his successors at the Kinsey Institute today allow a rigorous and independent investigation of this dark corner of human study." (4/2000)

Robert Sweet, former U.S. Depart. of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Administrator: "Dr. Reisman is a scientist of outstanding exactitude and courage...the massive, affluent sex industry [has been unable] to show her findings to be incorrect or methodologically flawed—in even the smallest detail" (8/25/94).

Bill Moyers, CBS News: "Dear Professor Reisman: Having read your article in the Washington Post, I wanted to say that I, for one, believe your research project to be quite important. Our society faces no more important dilemma, in fact, and I say this as a father, journalist and citizen. In my role as a journalist, however, I would like to.... explore how your conclusions can be reported on the air in a responsible way" (June 19, 1985).

The Hon. Dr. Marlene Goldsmith, M.L.C. Legislative Council, Australia: "Thank you for your powerful presentation on Tuesday. There were at least seven Members of Parliament present, and I have had very favorable responses from most of them.... For those of us fighting this battle in the trenches, your visit has been an inspiration. Thank you for all you are doing to make the world a safer place for its children" (Nov. 16, 1992).

The Hon. Dennis Stevenson MLA, Australia: "[Thanks].... in Canberra during your recent Australian tour.... for the in-depth briefing that you gave Parliamentarians.... [and] your presentation to the National Press Club Luncheon.... Parliamentarians.... were surprised to learn that Kinsey's findings have misled many legislators.... [as so much about] human sexuality in the western world derives from Kinsey" (December 11, 1992).

John Rabun, Deputy Director, Nat. Center for Missing & Exploited Children: Reisman's "study must be read by all those concerned with the ways pornography and violence in the media affect the incidence of child sexual exploitation and abuse" (3/24/88).

Susan Trento, Investigative Reporter, Author of The Power House, 1992: exposed Playboy's buying of legislative influence in Washington D.C. to discredit Reisman, whose cataloging of "children, crime and violence in pictures and cartoons found in Playboy, Penthouse, and Hustler...made the publishers of these and other magazines very nervous" (:194).

The LA Times, Reisman, "delivers a potentially damaging blow...compar[ing] two [Mapplethorpe] photographs...to child pornography and [saying] none are fit to hang in an art museum." (10/5/90) In 1991, Playboy, (whispering counsel to the Mapplethorpe defense) reported: "I would have taken a .357 Magnum, walked up to her and said, 'Judith, you're history'" (2/91). Hugh Hefner pens a "letter to the editor" in Canada, 1996, to condemn Reisman's work. Playboy: "Reisman...is lying with statistics...Playboy never has, never will" sexualize children. (12/85). She "puts men's magazines on the endangered species list," (10/88)...is "propagating a new witch-hunt mentality." (2/89).

Tim Philpot, Lawyer/Kentucky Congressman: "We retained the services of Judith Reisman as an expert witness on the issue of the health, welfare and safety of the four minor children.... Dr. Reisman's testimony was extremely helpful.... on the behavioral issues relating to the potential abuse of the children by either the father or his friends" (9/5/96). And, Pamela Hobbs: "My father, Dr. A. H. Hobbs.... believed your research was excellent." (9/25/94). University of Penn. scholar, Hobbs, provided the scholarship that halted Kinsey's Rockefeller grant.

Law Enforcement Training Conference on Child Sexual Exploitation and Obscenity, Memphis, Tennessee, on Dr. Reisman as Guest speaker particularly enjoyed the views of Dr. Judith Reisman and wished she had been able to spend more time with us. Her comments were right on target ... This seminar changed my total outlook/viewpoint on these type cases. Dr. Reisman could start a revolution. She's great ... I would have liked to have heard her speak more. She turned some lights on in my mind (10/4-5, 1993).

Jerre Thompson, President of Southland 7-11 Corp., Letter to the Attorney General's Commission on Pornography: [It] became apparent to us--especially from the generally unrebutted testimony before your Commission-- that respected experts who have studied this issue very carefully are of the opinion that apparently a very small segment of our society employs various tools, including adult magazines, to assist in abuses of children and others. This was strongly pointed out in Judith Reisman's report before the Commission at its [Miami, Florida] hearing on child pornography (4/ 10/86).

Sam Houston State University Criminal Justice Center, Texas, Announced: "Local Professional Named to Missing Children-Serial Murderer Task Force: Judith A. Reisman, Professor at American University in Washington, D.C., has been named to a National task force (funded by two agencies of the U.S. Department of Justice), given the job of developing the master plan for a nationwide system to trace missing or abducted children and adults, serial murderers and conduct research.... the other (session is) at the FBI Academy, Quantico,," (8/15, 1983).

FYI, I have submitted your name to the Secretary of Defense as a potential appointee to the seven-person "Panel to Review Sexual Misconduct Allegations at the United States Air Force Academy," required by the April 12, 2003, Emergency Wartime Supplemental Appropriations Act. The statute requires the Secretary of Defense not later than May 1, 2003, to appoint this panel "from among private United States citizens" based on the following qualifications:

- A. "Expertise in behavioral and psychological sciences."
- B. "Expertise in . . . standards and practices relating to proper treatment of sexual assault victims (to include their medical and legal rights and needs)."
- C. "Expertise in . . . the United States military academies."

The statute includes the following "Duties of Panel": "IN GENERAL"--

The panel . . . shall carry out a study of the policies, management and organizational practices, and cultural elements of the United States Air Force Academy that were conducive to allowing sexual misconduct (including sexual assaults and rape) at the United States Air Force Academy," and to report on its study to the Secretary of Defense and the Committees of Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives" not later than August 6, 2003 (ninety days after its required first meeting).

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to call me.

To whom it may concern,

I would like to take this opportunity to give Judith Reisman, Ph.D., my highest recommendation as a speaker and trainer for law enforcement, social workers, and school personnel.

Dr. Reisman is a good friend and colleague, and it has been my honor to work with her for almost a decade.

She will provide vital information to law enforcement, social worker, and school audiences, on the historical background for where our society is today; and powerful and important insights in the number of crimes, the kinds of crimes, and the new nature of the victims of crimes (children, elderly, etc.) that are being committed.

Dr. Reisman has lectured to police and other helping professions on the suborning of rape, child abuse, incest, illicit drugs, etc., encoded in "soft" pornography. Her listeners have responded with significant gratitude. "She turned on the light bulb in my head," is the way one officer put it.

Following her presentation to the FBI Behavioral Science Unit at Quantico in 1983, the head of the unit, Roger Depue, asked her to put the presentation into a training tape for their agents. He felt that Dr. Reisman's historical and visual analysis data was extremely helpful and useful to his agents and to all others who are involved in the vital struggle to keep our society safe.

Today our helping professions are regularly exposed to what the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC) calls "objectionable material," material that can scar the soul of the observer. NCMEC and others are providing "Safeguard" programs to offset job trauma resulting from visual sadosexual exposure. And no one can provide a better "safeguard" in my opinion, than Dr. Reisman.

To know our history, who the bad guys were and are and why, and to offer help by providing the latest data on psychopharmacological responses and repair, lessens the stress of ignorance and confusion in these vital fields.

Again, I give Dr. Reisman my highest recommendation for presentations and training for law enforcement, social worker, and school professionals. She has been a true leader in this field, and she will provide a vital service to those who call upon her.

If anyone needs further information from me, please don't hesitate to contact me at Info@killology.com.

Sincerely,

LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

To Whom It May Concern:

As a friend and colleague, I am writing this letter to personally introduce and recommend Dr. Judith A. Reisman, Ph. D. to be considered for a law enforcement instructor position.

Dr. Reisman is an author, researcher, lecturer, educator and expert witness. Her educational credentials in the area of fraudulent sex science-education and the effect of pornography on the human mind, are astonishing and without precedent. Her Curriculum Vitae is an encyclopedia of information and research unparalleled in the field.

Dr. Reisman is affiliated with The Institute for Media Education and has been a consultant to four U.S. Department of Justice administrations, The U.S. Department of Education, as well as the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Dr. Reisman is sought world-wide to speak, lecture, testify and counsel individuals, organizations, professionals and governments.

As the author of Practical Homicide Investigation: Tactics, Procedures, and Forensic Techniques and Sex-Related Homicide and Death Investigation: Practical and Clinical Perspectives, I have sought and obtained invaluable assistance over the years from Dr. Judith Reisman in connection with my work and presentations.

For further information I can be contacted at <http://www.practicalhomicide.com/>

Given at a Science, Technology, and Space Hearing:
The Science Behind Pornography Addiction
Thursday, November 18 2004 - 2:00 PM - SR 253

The Testimony of
Dr. Judith Reisman
California Protective Parents Association

Good afternoon, thank you for the opportunity to speak with you today. I am Judith Reisman, Ph.D., president of the Institute for Media Education, specializing in the communication effects of images on the brain, mind and memory; fraud in the human sexuality field; and the addictive properties of sexually explicit images, commonly called pornography.

Thanks to the latest advances in neuroscience, we now know that pornographic visual images imprint and alter the brain, triggering an instant, involuntary, but lasting, biochemical memory trail, arguably, subverting the First Amendment by overriding the cognitive speech process. This is true of so-called “soft-core” and “hard-core” pornography. And once new neurochemical pathways are established they are difficult or impossible to delete.

Pornographic images also cause secretion of the body’s “fight or flight” sex hormones. This triggers excitatory transmitters and produces non-rational, involuntary reactions; intense arousal states that overlap sexual lust--now with fear, shame, and/or hostility and violence. Media erotic fantasies become deeply imbedded, commonly coarsening, confusing, motivating and addicting many of those exposed. (See “the Violence Pyramid” at <http://www.vbii.org/violence.html>) Pornography triggers myriad kinds of internal, natural drugs that mimic the “high” from a street drug. Addiction to pornography is addiction to what I dub erototoxins -- mind-altering drugs produced by the viewer’s own brain.

How does this ‘brain sabotage’ occur? Brain scientists tell us that “in 3/10 of a second a visual image passes from the eye through the brain, and whether or not one wants to, the brain is structurally changed and memories are created – we literally ‘grow new brain’ with each visual experience.”

This scientifically documented neurochemical imprinting affects children and teens especially deeply; their still-developing brains process emotions differently, with significantly less rationality and cognition than the adult brain.

Children and others who cannot read will still instantly decode, feel and experience images. Largely right-hemisphere visual and non-speech stimuli enter long-term memory, conscious and unconscious. Any highly excitatory stimuli (whether sexually explicit sex education or X-Rated films) say neurologists, “which lasts half a second within five to ten minutes has produced a structural change that is in some ways as profound as the structural changes one sees in [brain] damage...[and] can...leave a trace that will last for years.”

Pornography psychopharmacologically imprints young brains – thereby invalidating notions of informed consent. Moreover, the mainstreaming of pornography since the 1950’s directly coincides with the unprecedented explosion in sexual disease and a huge, exponential increase in new types of pornographic copycat sex crimes by and to juveniles and adults. Such facts should inform the legal arguments about free speech versus pornography in public and even private venues. I have spent decades documenting the effects of pornographic “humor” and photos on children, fathers, husbands and wives and communities, much of which is found in my book, "Soft" Porn Plays Hardball, 1990, in my U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) report, Images of Children, Crime and Violence in Playboy, Penthouse and Hustler, and in my white paper on “The Psychopharmacology of Pictorial Pornography: Restructuring Brain, Mind & Memory & Subverting Freedom of Speech” (<http://www.drjudithreisman.com/brain.pdf>).

A basic science research team employing a cautiously protective methodology should study erototoxins and the brain/body.

State-of-the-art brain scanning studies should answer these questions with hard, replicable data. As with the tobacco suits, these data could be helpful in litigation and in affecting legal change.

Testimony from victims and police commonly finds pornography an on site sex crime manual. In one 1984 Senate hearing, John Rabun, now COO of DoJ’s Missing and Abducted Children Center, testified that when arrested, “all, that is 100%” of rapists, pedophiles, etc., in their study possessed adult pornography, “such as Playboy, on up....”

An offensive strategy should be planned, mandating law enforcement collection of all pornography data at crime sites and judges, police, lawyers and law schools should receive training in the hard data of sexology fraud and erototoxins as changing brains absent informed consent.

Congress should end all Federal funding of educational institutions that train students with bogus Kinseyan academic pornography and/or that teach pornography as harmless. Congress should also remove the authority of so-called sexology institutes--most of whom are pornography grantees--to confer professional credentials and serve as expert witnesses.

These are concrete steps that can and must be taken to redress the effects of pornography on our children, our communities and our country.

Thank you very much.

NCJ Number:	109944
Title:	Role of Pornography and Media Violence in Family Violence, Sexual Abuse and Exploitation, and Juvenile Delinquency, Part 4
Publication Date:	January 1, 1987
Annotation:	Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention has compiled the products and the research from "Images of Children, Crime and Violence" from PLAYBOY, PENTHOUSE and HUSTLER Magazines under cooperative agreement # 84-JN-AX-K007. This was a research activity entitled ROLE OF PORNOGRAPHY AND MEDIA VIOLENCE IN FAMILY VIOLENCE, SEXUAL ABUSE AND EXPLOITATION, AND JUVENILE DELINQUENCY, awarded to American University School of Education.
Abstract:	The research package consists of four parts. PART 1 consists of three volumes submitted by the Principal Investigator, Judith A Reisman, Ph.D., to the Grantee, American University. PART 2 consists of three volumes that were delivered to OJJDP by American University to represent the final report of the Grantee, American University, and was submitted without the Grant Advisory comments. PART 3 consists of a single volume that is the Principal Investigator's final report and includes the reviews of the Principal Investigator's research methodology, findings, and usefulness. The reviews were by five experts chosen by the Grantee, American University, and OJJDP to review the Principal Investigator's research. PART 4 consists of three volumes which provide an Overview of the research; Methods and Procedures concerning the research by the Principal Investigator; and The Data Book. OJJDP has decided, with the concurrence of the Grantee, to make these products available to the public upon request. The research was an investigative analysis of PLAYBOY, PENTHOUSE and HUSTLER over the period of December 1953 to December 1984 to examine for nonviolent, violent, and criminal image portrayal and scenario involvement of children. The research reported the findings of 14,854 images of crime and violence and 6,004 images of children (with the predominate group being girls between ages 3 to 11 years) as part of the overall sexual and violent scenario. There were 989 sexual scenarios which included children actively involved with adults; and each magazine portrayed children as unharmed and/or benignly affected by the child/adult sex. For related volumes, see NCJ 107147-107149.

To Whom It May Concern:

I contacted Dr. Reisman in connection with an important child pornography case, Massachusetts v. Oakes, 109 S.Ct. 2333 (1989), which I argued in the United States Supreme Court in January, 1989. Because of the way in which the Massachusetts child pornography statute was written, I had to convince the court that both nude and sexually explicit photographs of children were exploitive and harmful. To make the point, I quoted Dr. Reisman's study, "Images of Children, Crime and Violence In Playboy, Penthouse and Hustler Magazines," in which she showed that sexually exploitive photographs of children condone and promote a distorted view of sexuality, often by pairing the themes of sexuality and violence, or depicting children as desiring sexual activity with adults.

Thank you.

Dear Dr. Reisman:

I wish to extend my appreciation to you for both your assistance and your testimony in the cases of State of Ohio v. Contemporary Arts Center and State of Ohio v. Dennis Barrie. As you know, the State filed a Motion in Limine regarding what constituted the "whole" as that issue related to the Mapplethorpe exhibit. Your testimony was critical to the Motion, and your testimony ensured a favorable ruling for the State.

The issues and interpretation you presented concerning the child photographs and the remaining photographs substantiated the prosecution's view that each, for that matter, any photograph creates a response in the viewer. The perspective you established was both concise and persuasive, and should be considered in any interpretation of pornography and its affect on both children and adults.

The Mapplethorpe trial in Cincinnati was a unique trial. Your assistance was both effective and helpful, and was greatly appreciated.

Yours truly,

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

LOCAL PROFESSIONAL NAMED TO 'MISSING CHILDREN-SERIAL MURDERER' TASK FORCE
By Lyndol Wilkinson, Office of Publications, Criminal Justice Center, SHSU, Huntsville

Judith A. Reisman, Professor at American University in Washington, D.C., has been named to a National task force (funded by two agencies of the U.S. Department of Justice), given the job of developing the master plan for a nationwide system to trace missing or abducted children and adults, serial murderers and conduct research.

The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention and the National Institute of Justice, both agencies of the U.S. Department of Justice, have awarded a $136,000 grant to the Criminal Justice Center of Sam Houston State University in Huntsville, Texas.

Robert O. Heck, National program manager of the project, stated the following: "There is a need for a coordinated communications system, whereby local authorities would have access to a national computerized records system to not only track down missing persons, but also to have the ability to examine evidence from the scene of a homicide in order to determine whether or not it may be linked to a "serial murder."

The $136,000 grant to the Criminal Justice Center at SHSU provides that the Center oversee several planning sessions of the project, which is officially called The National Missing/Abducted Children and Serial Murder Tracking and Prevention Program. Dr. Doug Moore, a Professor at the Criminal Justice Center, has been named the National field manager for the project and will work closely with Mr. Heck.

The first session was held at the Texas location, and will be followed by two sessions, one in Huntsville the last week in August, and the other at the FBI Academy, Quantico, Virginia, in the first week of September.

To Whom It May Concern:

As past Administrator for the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) at the U.S. Department of Justice, (1990-92) I have had the opportunity to carefully review both the methodology and the results of OJJDP's nearly $800,000 project stewarded by Dr. Judith A. Reisman, from 1983-1985.

Without hesitation I can state that Dr. Reisman's product Images of Children, Crime and Violence in Playboy, Penthouse and Hustler (1953-1984) had a direct and powerful affect both upon the self-policing activities of the publishers of these erotic/pornographic magazines, and their impact in the family marketplace, both nationally and internationally.

Dr. Reisman is a scientist of outstanding exactitude and courage. She is a scholar with an eye for the cutting-edge social problems of our time and does not blanch at the study of politically volatile areas of inquiry, largely avoided by other academicians of her mature abilities.

While the massive, affluent sex industry has employed nearly every technique in their arsenal, short of violence, to stop Dr. Reisman's work, they have not shown her findings to be incorrect or methodologically flawed -- in even the smallest detail.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Sweet, Jr.

The State Factor

Jeffersonian Principles in Action

Restoring Legal Protections for Women And Children: A Historical Analysis of the States' Criminal Codes

By Dr. Linda Jeffery

April 2004

Introduction

It is my pleasure as former National Chair of ALEC, to introduce this State Factor, "Restoring Legal Protections for Women and Children: A Historical Analysis of the States Criminal Codes," proposed during my chairmanship and then approved on December 11, 2003 for publication by the ALEC Education Task Force. The Education Subcommittee on Junk Science in the Classroom, ably chaired by Kansas Senator Kay O'Connor, commissioned this research because of widespread use of "junk" science misdirecting legislatures, courts and education.

The evidence presented in this State Factor reveals compelling evidence of illegal and criminal acts masquerading as science taken from Kinsey's confessions in his own "Reports" (1948-1953). Dr. Alfred Kinsey was a "sexual revolutionary," and his "Kinsey Reports" are junk science. Professor of Constitutional law Dr. Charles Rice of Notre Dame concluded that Alfred Kinsey's research was:

"...contrived, ideologically driven and misleading. Any judge, legislator or other public official who gives credence to that research is guilty of malpractice and dereliction of duty."

Since World War II Kinsey's fraudulent data informed and directed the American Law Institute's "Model Penal Code" in eliminating and weakening 52 sex laws that once protected marriage. If indeed, as Justice Brandeis once said, "law points the way," the changes to public policies and law naturally followed the Kinsey junk science sexuality model. The ALI's penal law reforms recommended to legislators and lawyers were largely adopted between 1960 – 1980 and permitted Kinsey's abnormal sexual conduct to be taught to American children via sex education. Since then public health costs from sexual disease and dysfunction have skyrocketed indeed all measures of socio sexual disorder have soared from the 1960s, when protective laws began to be weakened and/or eliminated.

As Kinsey intended, contemplated in the current debate are calls for "discrimination" laws to protect the full range of sexual activities including transvestitism, transgenderism, polygamy, bestiality and the like and, in education, whether to teach our children all "alternate" sexual acts as normal - or to teach chastity and abstinence until marriage.

This State Factor is a valuable reference and resource for your work in government, because it provides you with history and current information of the utmost importance for any informed understanding of many public issues crucial to the protection of America's families and young people. Understanding how junk sex science has deformed our thinking and laws is vital as legislators "point the way." Restoration of reliable and honest standards in our state laws will ensure more healthful and economically sound outcomes for generations to come. Only if enough legislators call attention to

Dear Dr. Reisman:

It was a pleasure to hear you speak at the seminar in Dallas on obscenity and child pornography. As a prosecuting attorney, I have tried approximately 35 obscenity jury trials in which the defense has called a sociologist as an expert on community standards. Your book, Kinsey, Sex and Fraud, has proven invaluable on cross-examination. This sociologist studied at the Kinsey Institute and bases a lot of expert opinions on his studies at that institute. To be able to point out to the jury the fraud that Alfred Kinsey and his institute have perpetrated is a very effective tool.

I encourage you to continue your work in this area to point out to the public the frauds sociology and psychology have given us.

Sincerely,

Dr. Judith Reisman is a member of this council and, in my opinion, has made a number of important contributions to the advancement of ethnopsychological studies. Not least in importance are her Kinsey, Sex and Fraud (with Edward Eichel) and her recent "Soft Porn" Plays Hardball.

One of the most important tasks of the ethnopsychologically sophisticated today is to call attention to the many threats to young people from the unbridled promotion of sexual expression in this country.

I know of no one better qualified to communicate to other professionals and to parents on this problem than Dr. Reisman.

PRESS RELEASE: TIM TATE'S DOCUMENTARY

"SECRET HISTORY" – SHOW ENTITLED, "KINSEY'S PEDOPHILES"

BROADCAST CHANNEL 4 MONDAY 10 August 9PM

In 1948 the American sexologist Alfred Kinsey published his first ground-breaking study of sexuality. The product of ten years of research it was titled Sexual Behavior in the Human Male. Five years later he published Sexual Behavior in the Human Female and both books seemed to prove that sexual activities that respectable society thought taboo were in fact normal practice for millions of ordinary Americans. Kinsey – a seemingly mild mannered dedicated scientist- traveled the world there after advising Government's on how to change antiquated sex laws. Certainly some updating was required. In Arkansas for example it was illegal to laugh during sexual intercourse! Kinsey's advice to the Wolfenden Committee was a major factor in the long journey in reforming the laws on homosexuality in this country.

However there was a key element in both books that contained the sexual behavior of children. SECRET HISTORY reports that for both of Kinsey's books crucial data was supplied by habitual, predatory pedophiles and that their "scientific research" was in that the grotesque, violent sexual abuse of children. Chapter 5 of Sexual Behavior of the Human Male carried tables of information on the sexual behavior of 317 boys from as young as 5 months. The book claims the children could, with the assistance of an experienced adult, enjoy sexual activity from a very early age. Yet nearly all of the data in this chapter was applied by one-man code named by Kinsey as Mr. Green.

SECRET HISTORY reveals Green's real name for the first time and shows that he was a pedophile with an enormous sexual appetite. He detailed all his sexual encounters in voluminous diaries that Kinsey convinced himself were vital data. Green even timed how long it took him to masturbate young boys to supported orgasm. Some boys he masturbated over 24-hour periods. American Academic Judith Reisman tells SECRET HISTORY 'We have a whole chapter here in which children have been tortured for this so-called scientific data. ...An assessment of this data suggests that a minimum 317...boys were being raped around the clock using stop watches.'

SECRET HISTORY also traces the career of ex-Nazi Dr. Fritz von Balluseck who was tried for the sexual abuse of 50 children in West Germany in 1956. Von Balluseck had previously sent his diaries to Kinsey at Kinsey's request. Kindly refused to make the diaries available to the court. The program also interviews a woman abused as a child by both her father and grandfather and who believes that her father was reporting his activities to Kinsey. The program also includes interviews with Kinsey biographers James H. Jones and Jonathan Gaythorne-Hardy, the current Director of the influential Kinsey Institute John Bancroft, and former sex-researching colleagues of Kinsey.

The results are disturbing and raise a fundamental doubt in Kinsey's research methods that questions both the morality and the science of soliciting data on children's sexuality from habitual child abusers.

*SECRET HISTORY * KINSEY'S PAEDOPHILES* is a YTV production for Channel 4 produced and directed by Tim Tate.

Dear Dr Relsman

re: THE SOUTH AFRICAN FILM AND PUBLICATIONS BILL OF 1995

I am happy to inform you that after months of research and hard work (which would not have been possible without the aid of your expert knowledge, books, videos and articles), we have achieved a major victory on the Pornography front.

On 15 January 1996 I submitted to a Parliamentary Select Portfolio Committee, a voluminous document, outlining the shortcomings of our Bill, against the backdrop of our constitution, and the legislation and research in your, and other countries.

I was subsequently invited, along with the Attorney-General and another colleague, to give oral evidence before this committee, which I did on 27 February 1996.

Subsequent to the oral hearings, the committee decided that the Bill should be sent back to the proverbial drawing board, and the Attorney-General was asked if we would be prepared to assist, on a consultative base in the redrafting process. A final draft is scheduled to be released at the end of June 1996.

I am hoping by that stage to return ALL the literature that you so kindly allowed us to use.

Should there however be something that you urgently require, don't hesitate to let us know.

I once again, and this time on behalf of the majority of South Africans, express my appreciation and gratitude for your interest and your assistance in our fight against Pornography.

Yours Sincerely

EO hoeft niet te rectificeren

De Evangelische Omroep (EO) hoeft de uitlatingen van een Amerikaanse onderzoekster over het verband tussen het blad Playboy en seksueel geweld als incest en verkrachting, niet te rectificeren. Dat bepaalde de rechtbank in Amsterdam gisteren in het kort geding dat het blad tegen de omroep had aangespannen.

De onderzoekster deed de uitspraken in het televisieprogramma Tijden dat de EO op 17 september uitzond. In het vonnis gaat de rechter volledig voorbij aan de uitlatingen van de onderzoekster. De omroep mag bij eventuele heruitzending geen gebruik maken van illustraties van Playboy. Dat zou strijdig zijn met het auteursrecht van het blad. Een schadevergoeding, zoals Playboy had geëist, wees hij af.

Een woordvoerder van de EO is 'zeer tevreden' over de uitspraak. J. Heemskerk, hoofdredacteur van Playboy is 'buiten-gewoon teleurgesteld en heel boos'. Hij overweegt in hoger beroep te gaan. "Het is toch werkelijk ongelooflijk dat je zomaar mag zeggen dat er duizenden foto's van kinderen in het tijdschrift staan. Dat is feitelijk onjuist."

Namens het tijdschrift eiste de advocaat rectificatie van de gedane uitspraken, een schadevergoeding van 100.000 gulden en een verbod op het opnieuw uitzenden van de reportage.

De rechter vindt nu dat de EO niets te verwijten valt. Iedereen mag zijn eigen mening kenbaar maken en de pers mag die publiceren, aldus het vonnis. Dat de omroeporganisatie verzuimde het blad om een reactie te vragen is volgens de rechtbank geen ramp. Wel had het de omroep gesierd als was vermeld dat het onderzoek gedateerd is en dat de onderzoekster in eigen land op z'n minst omstreden is.

De omroep hoeft geen schadevergoeding te betalen aan het mannenblad omdat de geleden schade 'te onzeker en ongespecificeerd is'.

De raadsman van Playboy zei tijdens de zitting dat adverteerders naar aanleiding van de televisie-uitzending mogelijk zouden afhaken. Ook lezers zouden het blad links kunnen laten liggen.

Amsterdam, The Netherlands: Playboy sued and lost. The judge rejected its claim that Dr. Reisman engaged in libel and slander when she stated on television that the magazine deliberately produced and published child pornography and incest propaganda from its earliest years of publication.

Re: Case Assistance
~~Mariage of Harvey and Pruitt~~

Dear Dr. Reisman:

Thank you for your expert assistance in this delicate child custody case involving pseudo- and actual child pornography.

Your content analysis of the themes and apparent ages of the sexually explicit images on the computer belonging to my client's husband was extremely helpful in the development of our case.

In this case, your statistical documentation of juvenile stimuli was important. While I consider the ability to view that documentation visually, but, non-erotically, a helpful technique in any case involving pornography, it was invaluable in this one.

However, the real value of your work was that I could use it to portray the images to the judge in a manner that did not offend him.

More importantly, you have a level of expertise in analyzing these type of images that is unique and I have been unable to find elsewhere.

On a personal level, my client was especially grateful to see these upsetting pictures converted into charts and graphs in order that she could rationally review them.

You should rest comfortably knowing that the two young girls in this case are now safe with their mother.

Sincerely,

Seth L. Goldstein,

Dear Dr. Reisman,

Your testimony today was outstanding. And while of course I knew it would be, it was a very moving experience for me to be in the courtroom today and to listen to what you said and how you said it so incredibly effectively. I think it would be powerful, and was, for everyone there even if they had absolutely no knowledge of pornography addiction and its effect on families. And for me particularly because to have these experiences which effect many women, children, families, and which I have experienced first hand, legitimized through your testimony, to serve to protect my daughter, was a day I will never forget and which I believe will have very positive impact on G's future. I was overwhelmed today with an even greater realization of how much weight your testimony brought to G's safety.

Today other law clerks from the courthouse as well as another Judge came to sit in the courtroom to listen to your testimony. I was able to also have your entire report submitted officially in this case following the telephone testimony so it is now a part of the record. I think it was clear that your testimony and expertise were heard, and really listened to, with the highest regard.

Afterward Jennifer spoke with C B, the guardian ad litem, and C expressed her feeling that when you talked about having no boundaries that it really hit home with her that this applies to Andrew. She also expressed agreement over other parts of your testimony about addicts lying, addiction, and very strongly spoke about your testimony regarding how images of violence and sex become part of a person's reality, among other things in a very candid way. In that conversation C said she did not think that the Judge would allow G to go "to that house or to have overnights or weekends with him." When Jennifer repeated that back to her and asked her about it, C said, "I can't see how he could. Not after this." C teaches a class about rape and violence at Penn State along with other classes. I do believe that she was very impacted by your testimony today and that that will be something that is also expressed to Judge G in my opinion.

This is one of the first times I have left the court room with any sense of peace and I thank you for that. I can honestly say that today may be one of the first days in many, many years that I feel even slightly relieved. I'm not letting my guard down. But somehow living with this over time is like living with a heightened sense of something...anxiety or fear or protective instinct? I am not sure. Whatever it is, at this moment I feel that my daughter is surrounded by very strong influences of protection and that I am not alone in this and that is meaningful and significant. And it is very much in part to having the brilliance of your testimony, your years of work, your expertise, your preparedness today, and JB's determination and her own personal brilliance, in G's corner.

Dr. Reisman, you are an amazing woman. Of course many people know this, and I am sure that people on a much higher level than a mom in State College, think this and tell you this. And yet in the truest sense you have changed my life today and in the past year in helping me protect G. And this will have, I do believe, a lasting impact on her life. Whatever the outcome of today, the direction is not one I could have charted on my own. So I thank you so very much for everything you have done for my family and me. Your work will prove to help many women who are directly impacted by this phenomenon in our culture, and those who will be in the future, and those who have no idea that you are contributing to their lives and future. And I am thankful to be one of the many. Thank you.
