Seek Out the Expert by Joseph J. Truncale, Ph.D., The ASLET Journal (January/February 1989). Quote from p. 12:

“If you wish to know more about guns and shooting, talk to those who are recognized experts in this area. Massad Ayoob, Ray Chapman, John Farnam, Emanuel Kapelsohn, Dennis Tueller, along with many others, can guide you to schools and programs which are well known for their professionalism.”

Glock by Sgt. Paul Palank. Blue Line Police Magazine (March/April 1989). Quote from p. 24:

“The success that we in Miami have had with the Glock pistol is due not only to the advanced design of the weapon, but the “state of the art” instruction provided by Glock Incorporated in the forms of Emanuel Kapelsohn (Peregrine Corporation) and Peter Tarley (Rockwell Corporation). The training provided by these gentlemen to the transitional training instructors superbly mated the Glock’s ingenious technology with their equally progressive training program.”

Glock Continues To Be An Innovator by E.B. Hulsey, Police Marksman (March/April 1990). Quote from p. 58:

“The instructor . . . was Emanuel Kapelsohn, who made the class a very interesting learning experience. Mr. Kapelsohn is an example of the quality instructors which Glock has retained to teach these courses.”

Glock Pistol: Perspective From The Field by Massad Ayoob. Guns (September 1990). Quote from p. 77:

“The best money you can spend on your Glock is for training. The firm retains Manny Kapelsohn, Peter Tarley, and Cathy and Jerry Lane for their police transition and armorer’s instruction programs . . . These are among the finest combat handgun trainers in America; Glock chose them well. I . . . believe that the superb training of these four master instructors has been more responsible for the Glock’s success in the field and in sales than most people realize.”

Emanuel Kapelsohn and Peregrine Corporation cited, quoted and acknowledged in “Semi-Automatic Pistol Manual Safety Restrictions,” U.S. Border Patrol Academy, Glynco, GA, presented at U.S. Marshal’s Service Semi-Automatic - Revolver Handgun Symposium, Feb. 21-22, 1990.
