UR SERVICES:

- Threat Assessments and recommendations: to identify and handle threatening or volatile persons or events, involved in domestic violence issues, sexual harassment concerns, disgruntled employees, clients, and others; to decrease liabilities and increase environment safety; and to provide intelligence information about domestic as well as foreign terrorism for conducting business as well as travel.
- Site safety evaluations following regulatory agency rules (OSHA, EEOC, etc.): to diminish violent incidents and hazardous events, improving safety and security.
- Investigations for: background checks; claims of harassment; theft of property, which may include covert operations; protective operations to defend against potential threats; and surveillances to gather information and observe behavior.
- Fitness-for-Duty reviews: to reduce culpability concerning safety issues to others when reinstating an employee or in determining if an individual may stay in a present position because of questionable behavior(s).
- Designing policies and procedures as well as providing training and hands-on practical exercises and drills: to successfully identify, manage and prevent violence and harassment and to promote total safety and security practices.

OUR PRESIDENT:

Dr. Michael H. Corcoran was in the law enforcement field for over 34 years beginning in 1968 and the threat assessment field since 1970 when he entered the United States Secret Service. Completing his doctorate in 1979 in Behavioral Science, and utilizing his law enforcement experience, he specializes in identifying and handling potentially violent subjects. He does threat assessments, determination of true potentials of violence and criminal profiling for governmental agencies, law enforcement, Fortune 1000 companies, school districts and private individuals around the world. Maintaining liaison with the intelligence community since 1970, Dr. Corcoran is able to obtain critical information and intelligence concerning terrorists and other “high-risk” developments as well as travel safety details for both foreign and domestic locations. He has spoken internationally on these topics, co-authored the text: “Violence Assessment & Intervention, The Practitioners Guide”, and has been “voir dired” as an expert witness on identifying violent individuals. Lastly, Dr. Corcoran was appointed President to the California University of Protection & Intelligence Management, the only approved and licensed school of its kind in the world granting degrees in Protection Management, Intelligence Management and Counterterrorism Studies
