I am an award-winning scientist and senior tech executive with extensive experience in the software product and service industry. I have years of experience working with prominent tech companies around the world. In my current role at Quandary Peak, I serve as a lead expert witness in IT and computer-related litigation, specializing in areas such as patent and intellectual property infringement, breach of contract, and software disputes.

Recently, I assembled and led a technical due diligence team while forging trusted client relationships to grow the department. My responsibilities included providing technology and IP consulting to VCs, Fortune 100, and private equity firms in matters of M&A transactions, VC startup investments, acqui-hires and IP matters.
