

James Sloves, MD , DABR

I have more than 28 years of experience as a board certified expert radiologist in addition to 5 more years of radiology residency and fellowship specialization for a total of 33 years in diagnostic radiology..

After graduating with honors Alpha Omega Alpha (AOA) from Rutgers Medical School, I completed my residency in diagnostic radiology at Cornell-NSUH hospital and became certified by the American Board of Radiology (ABR). Afterwards I completed a fellowship and held a clinical instructor teaching position at the prestigious Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Subsequently I joined private practice radiology and held positions as Chief Division of Ultrasound, Director of two different imaging centers, and more recently Chief Division of Body Imaging of one of the largest radiology practices in the country and in the world, Virtual Radiologic (Vrad). During my years in private practice I also performed medicolegal reviews .

I complete more than the necessary requirements of continuing medical education (CMEs) every year and regularly attend radiology conferences.

For the past 12 years I have performed Quality Assurance for Virtual Radiologic reviewing more than 1,700 cases. I am licensed in approximately 13 states and credentialed at more than one hundred fifty facilities across the country including hospitals and free standing imaging centers. I have been as an independent contractor with one of the largest teleradiology companies in the world, based in the United States, since 2011. I have a flexible schedule to accommodate your needs.
