

JurisPro Expert Introduction

John T. McMahan, MD, FACS

John T. McMahan, MD, FACS is a board-certified Otolaryngologist–Head and Neck Surgeon with more than 40 years of clinical and surgical experience. He completed fellowship training in Head and Neck Oncology and served on the faculty of Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. Dr. McMahan has extensive expertise in rhinology, sinus surgery, thyroid and parathyroid surgery, sleep-disordered breathing, otology, airway disorders, head and neck surgery, and office-based ENT procedures.

In addition to a distinguished clinical career, Dr. McMahan provides expert medical consultation in matters involving standards of care, surgical complications, causation analysis, medical record review, physician performance, disability and impairment assessment, and complex multidisciplinary medical issues. He has experience reviewing cases for both plaintiff and defense counsel and has provided deposition and trial testimony.

Areas of particular interest include recurrent laryngeal nerve injury, thyroid and parathyroid surgery, sinus and rhinologic disorders, sleep medicine, airway management, otologic disease, delayed diagnosis, informed consent, and surgical decision-making.

Dr. McMahan is available for case screening, medical record review, expert reports, deposition testimony, trial testimony, and consulting services nationwide.

Selected Experience Highlights: Board-Certified Otolaryngologist – Head & Neck Surgeon
Fellowship Training in Head & Neck Oncology Former Northwestern University Faculty Member
40+ Years of Clinical and Surgical Experience 25+ Medico-Legal Case Reviews 20+ Depositions
Trial Testimony Experience