Medical Review of Malpractice and Health Related Cases in All Medical Specialties

Medical malpractice is the third leading cause of death in the United States with 225,000 Americans dying annually. To put the problem in perspective 500,000 die from cancer and 350,000 die from heart disease. The number of people suffering from morbidity associated with medical malfeasance is a multiple of that figure with tens of billions of dollars involved. Hence the timeliness of the Medical Malpractice Seminar of 2007. When completed it will be a unique work. 70 doctors from some of the finest institutions in the country will be lecturing on what are and what are not deviations from the standard of care in their own discipline. For plaintiff's attorneys a great deal of time and money can be saved when you apply this knowledge to the histories of your potential clients; moving forward with worthwhile cases. With the aid of this seminar even the novice can break into a very lucrative field with confidence and the ability to help their clients. For defense attorneys this will be an invaluable addition to your library and give you immediate access to critical information in helping you to assess the defensibility of your cases. The medical-legal support lectures with such topics as "Why defendants win at trial" by Peter Kopff, "Criteria for case selection" by Amos Gern, "The impact of tort reform" by Thomas Malone, "Caps" by Peter Angelos, "Wrongful Death" by Richard Lawrence, along with many more will turn this into what will be in effect the first complete medical malpractice textbook.
